

COS 521 - Bible V: Acts, Epistles, and Revelation

May 2026

Mark Kim
mark.kim@cst.edu

This course focuses on the contents and context of the Book of Acts, the Epistles, and the Book of Revelation, and especially on the theological emphases of their writers. Students will learn to articulate a theology of Scripture.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Successful students will be able to:

1. Distinguish these genres of biblical literature and understand the major theological themes in these writings.
2. Faithfully exegete these forms of biblical literature.
3. Apply exegesis to preaching, other pastoral responsibilities, and issues of the present day.
4. Articulate the unity and authority of Scripture as a whole.

Textbooks:

Bible (NRSVue, NIV, NASB95, or ESV translation)

Mark Allen Powell, Introducing the New Testament. [From COS 321]

Warren Carter and Amy-Jill Levine, The New Testament: Methods and Meanings.

Supplementary Textbooks:

Carl R. Holladay, A Critical Introduction to the New Testament: Interpreting the Meaning and Message of Jesus Christ. [From COS 321]

Everett Ferguson, Backgrounds of Early Christianity. [From COS 321]

Suggested Books and Commentaries:

Jouette Bassler, Navigating Paul.

Eds. Joel Green, Lee Martin McDonald, The World of the New Testament: Cultural, Social, and Historical Contexts

Anchor Yale Bible commentary series

Three Pre-class Assignments: Due Fri, May 1, 2026

Please email both written assignments to Mark Kim at: mark.kim@cst.edu.

Assignment One: Reading Acts and the Epistles

Please read Acts through Revelation in the New Testament in one of the translations listed above.

Assignment Two: The Reasons for the Epistles

In approximately four double-spaced pages, please describe what our introductory textbooks (Powell, Carter & Levine) and/or our supplementary textbook (Holladay) has to say about the reasons that Romans, 1 Corinthians, Hebrews, and Revelation were written. You may write more if you wish—and include more epistles—but four pages are sufficient.

COS 521 - Bible V: Acts, Epistles, and Revelation

Please cite passages from the New Testament to illustrate your points. For example, John the Seer tells us in Rev 1:1 that the matters described were given “to show his servants what must soon take place.” There are other reasons for writing, and Powell, Holladay, and Carter & Levine will help you discover them.

The paper should be submitted as a Word document in Times New Roman font, 12 pt., with 1 inch margins all around, correct in grammar, spelling and syntax, and approximately four double-spaced pages in length.

Assignment Three: The Authors

Please write an account in four pages of what our textbooks tell us about Paul and the authors of Revelation, Hebrews, and 1 John. Again, you may write more if you wish—and you may include more authors of more epistles—but four double-spaced pages are sufficient. Who were they? When and where did they write? The paper must be in a similar format as the previous paper.

The Course:

The course will engage the main issues found in Acts, the Epistles, and the book of Revelation. It will consist of 8 face-to-face class sessions by Zoom videoconference, 2.5 hours each.

**NOTE: There will be no class on May 19. Instead, June 2 will be the final class.

Dates: May 5, 7, 12, 14, 21, 26, 28, June 2 (Tuesdays and Thursdays)

Time: 5-7:30pm Pacific Time

Forums:

Forums are a way for students to actively engage with New Testament scholarship and one another. Students will be assigned weekly articles pertinent to the material covered in class. Each student will read the article and write a reflection to be shared with the rest of the class. Each week’s forum post will be due by Friday of the same week. Every other student will then post a response(s) to the student’s reflection by Saturday of the same week. More instructions about forums will be provided at the beginning of the course.

Exegesis Papers:

"Exegesis" is a transliterated Greek word that means "explanation." One exegetes, that is explains, the meaning of a Biblical text in its historical context, using all the tools available to the scholar: language, history, archeology, ancient literature, and especially other Biblical texts. These help us to understand what the author meant and intended, including helping to evaluate the author's assumptions and biases. This is the historical-critical method used by all competent scholars. Learning to do exegesis is one of the main purposes of this course.

Exegesis Papers: Each student will hand in four short papers that exegete the Bible passages indicated. These should be written so that they may serve, it is hoped, as the basis for sermons and/or Bible studies. The papers are to address the issues listed and are due on the days assigned.

They are to be submitted as Word documents in Times New Roman font, 12 pt., with 1 inch margins all around, correct in grammar, spelling and syntax, and approximately 3-4 double-spaced pages in length.

Plagiarism:

All students are responsible for their own work, and must complete every assignment in their own words, with all scholarly sources and quotations properly cited. The Course of Study takes plagiarism seriously. All cases of plagiarism as well as the use of Artificial Intelligence such as ChatGPT will be reported to the director, and will result in consequences to a student's grade. We do not want any of these things for our students so we are happy to answer questions and to help students learn to recognize and avoid plagiarism in their work.
